

My parents want me to be a doctor or teacher, but I want to be a Video Games Tester. The job involves logging bugs, verifying fixes, and writing reports, along with playing games, which I think is perfect for me since I'm already interested in video games