

Charcoal: Charcoal, being carbon-based, improves the soil's conductivity by reducing its resistivity. Charcoal particles can retain moisture, which helps keep the surrounding soil conductive.